ABOUT HAWKINS UNIVERSITY

The Hawkins Doctor of Business Administration (DBA) is a 180 ECTS doctoral program designed to equip business students, executives, and industry practitioners with high-level knowledge, research expertise, and analytical skills. Participants learn how to apply their professional capabilities to address complex, real-world business challenges. Unlike master's programs, which focus primarily on theory, the Hawkins DBA emphasizes the application of research-driven solutions that foster organizational efficiency, long-term growth, and sustainability. Throughout this transformative program, students refine their research skills and develop fresh perspectives on business situations, learning to apply effective methodologies that yield practical and measurable outcomes.

AIM OF THE PROGRAM

The Hawkins DBA program centers on cultivating a high level of applied research proficiency among students who aim to lead in various fields of business and management. Coursework focuses on putting theory into practice by enhancing critical research skills, analytical thinking, change management, and strategic decision-making. Students will also strengthen their writing and presentation skills, ensuring they can effectively communicate research findings. By integrating real-time problem-solving techniques, Hawkins University prepares graduates to confidently navigate complex business environments and drive lasting organizational impact.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

The doctoral candidates will be able to:

- Interpret the existing situation, implement relevant business models to interpret the new scenarios to create new paradigms of knowledge.

- Research and extend existing literature to promote the discipline's evolution to the next level.

- Acquire the body of knowledge in a systematic manner that enables the adequate comprehension and develop in-depth understanding of a discipline under consideration that allows you to evaluate further information in a critical manner.

- Design an appropriate research methodology which synchronizes the philosophical paradigms with the research topic and allows derivation of suitable recommendations which have been justified.

- Create new knowledge and provide recommendations which have been derived with the wider reading and its comprehension in a critical manner, and conduct the analysis using the tools which are appropriate for the collated data.

PROGRAM LEARNING OBJECTIVES

Apply research methodologies to study the business situations and address business challenges

Conduct primary and secondary research to understand business challenges

Apply deep understanding of relevant business and financial theory and practices to predict outcomes

Develop a high level of command over business communications
